

Holocaust deniers always have their primitive but sometimes obscure talking points ready, so unless you know how to answer them, you might be stumped.

The first thing you should ask that sack of filth about is his evidence. It's not up to you to prove, for example, that he is wrong about not even 6m Jews being in the occupied areas. He is making the claim, he must prove it.

If you want to turn the tables you can always:

1 Show them the documents that show that extermination was a state plan and the extermination intent existed, such as these: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2017/06/debunking-david-coles-auschwitz-video.html#docs>

2 Show them the documents proving mobile and stationary gas chambers. Gas vans: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2015/10/contemporary-german-documents-on.html>

Key Auschwitz gas chambers documents: http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2015/05/rebuttal-of-mattogno-on-auschwitz-part\_3.html

Most Auschwitz GC-related documents: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2012/10/index-of-published-evidence-on.html>

The Franke-Gricksch report, describing the mass murder of Jews in the Auschwitz gas chambers: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2019/08/nazi-document-on-mass-extermination-of.html>

3 Show them this scholarly demographic country-by-country German study establishing the number of the killed Jews as being between 5 and 6 million.

<https://www.degruyter.com/view/product/220100>

Be ready to use these rebuttals to the common denier memes: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2017/05/rebutting-twitter-denial-most-popular.html>

Also be ready to fend off the accusations of "forgery" by asking for specific evidence of the evidence presented having been forged.

Now to the specific points:

census records do not support such a figure. There weren't even 6 million Jews in occupied areas that could have been killed. To my understanding, there were appx 3+ million Jews in Poland alone, of which ~90% were murdered.

The "census records" might be referring to the World Almanac canard debunked here: <http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2017/05/rebutting-twitter-denial-most-popular.html#worldalmanac>

That there were that many - and more - Jews in the occupied territories is proven by the above-mentioned study, as well as the basic facts, one of which you have already mentioned - about 3 million Jews in Poland.

The Wannsee protocol gives the number of European Jews as 11 million (albeit its figure for France is wrong, so the sum is exaggerated - Korherr is more correct): https://www.ghwk.de/fileadmin/user\_upload/pdf-wannsee/dokumente/protokoll-januar1942\_barrierefrei.pdf

According to the Korherr report there were 10,3 million Jews in Europe (incl. USSR) in 1937: <https://www.ns-archiv.de/verfolgung/korherr/korherr-kurz.php>

For 17.9.39 Korherr lists 3,120,892 Jews in the so called Reich area (incl. Germany proper, the Protectorate, parts of occupied Poland etc.): <http://www.statistik-des-holocaust.de/Korherr2-3.jpg>

And that was just the very beginning, before the millions of Soviet Jews, Polish Jews who were on the Polish territory occupied by the Soviets, and other European Jews were caught up in the occupation.

E. g. up to 31.12.42 Korherr gives these "evacuation" stats for the occupied European countries (France etc.) as well as a partial result for the occupied Soviet territories: 792,818. And for the first quarter of 1943:

49,254. <http://www.statistik-des-holocaust.de/Korherr2-6.jpg>

The sum is 842,072, added to the previously mentioned number it is already 3,962,964.

But, again, Korherr himself stresses that his Soviet number (633k) is woefully undercounted ("Dabei konnte von den Todesfällen der sowjetrussischen Juden in den besetzten Ostgebieten nur ein Teil erfaßt werden, während diejenigen im übrigen europäischen Rußland und an der Front überhaupt nicht enthalten sind."). Most probably it contains only the Einsatzgruppen victims, whereas many more German units were shooting Jews. E. g. the Korherr report doesn't include most of the 363,211 Jews executed just in a few months of 1942 as reported by Himmler to Hitler, since most of those victims were killed by the "stationary" police forces: <https://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2019/11/report-to-hitler-jews-executed-363211.html> It also wouldn't include the hundreds of thousands shot by the Ordnungspolizei units.

Now add to this all the Jews that would be deported from the occupied countries mention by Korherr after the first quarter of 1943; include all the Rumanian and Hungarian Jews mention by Korherr (he estimates about 1 million in sum). Add all the Soviet Jews not appearing in the report, as acknowledged by Korherr himself. And you will end up with an estimate above 6 million.

But for the details I still refer you to the study in German above. of the large amounts of Jews that WERE killed, it wasn't due to systematic extermination, but disease and starvation. He seems to give himself an out here by arguing the Germans were so focused on just winning the war and for their own people, that the starvation/disease was just an unfortunate consequence of supply lines being cutoff.

This cannot apply even in principle to the pure extermination camps like Treblinka (about 800,000 victims), Belzec (about 430,000 victims), Sobibor (about 170,000 victims), Kulmhof (about 150,000 victims) since those were not concentration camps in the first place. They were very small patches of land where no more than a couple of thousand persons could live at one time. Their only function was literally extermination.

Now, Auschwitz-Birkenau was both a concentration camp and an extermination camp. But most of the Jews that died there (about 800,000 out of about 900,000, with the total death toll, incl. non-Jews, being about a million acc. to the more recent data) never became its inmates since they were gassed after a selection upon arrival, which means typhus/supply lines/etc. couldn't make a contribution here in principle.

Next point to consider is that the absolute majority of these victims died long before the bombings might have begun to have some sort of an effect. Nor is there any evidence that they had any effect on, say, food supplies to Auschwitz.

Finally, about half of all Jews died outside of any camps (due to mass shootings, starvation in the ghettos etc.).

So it's a bogus, ignorant, deceptive talking point throughout.

Not to mention that putting innocent people into typhus-ridden camps is also murder.

And in any case, the extermination is documented, so what's the point of this lie?

Start small - ask him to explain where the more than 100,000 Jews deported to Kulmhof (Chelmno) in 1942 go, since it wasn't a concentration camp, and to explain away all the explicit extermination references to this camp:

<http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2017/07/sonderkommando-kulmhof-in-german.html#excursus>

The Sonderbehandlung of about 100,000 Jews in the territory of my district, approved by you in agreement with the Chief of the Reich-Main-Security Office, SS Obergruppenführer Heydrich, can be completed within the next 2-3 months.

Sonderbehandlung - special treatment - was a code word for murder (as is proven, not merely assumed, at the link).

http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2017/09/sonderkommando-kulmhof-in-

german12.html http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.de/2017/09/sonderkommando-kulmhof-in-german15.html

... the camp Kulmhof ... to which mainly Jews unfit for work from the Warthegau, in particular from the Litzmannstadt ghetto, were at that time regularly transferred, was closed on 1/4/43. From a reliable source, the Forschungsstelle has now learned that the police guards there later re-exhumed the Jews buried in a little wood near Kulmhof and had to burn them in specially constructed furnaces. After being granted a lengthy leave, these guards were assigned to frontline duty.

<http://holocaustcontroversies.blogspot.com/2019/09/german-document-reveals-kulmhof-chelmno.html>

Their activity with this Sonderkommando, which consisted in the immediate fight against and annihilation of state enemies...